Tribal members are invited to take a short survey to share their thoughts on a draft Nuclear Policy.

The draft Nuclear Policy was created to provide nuanced guidance for Tribal staff who must engage in timely and effective communications with external partners to protect Tribal interests. The need for a draft Nuclear Policy crystallized in 2025, when dozens of legislative concepts promoting nuclear energy as a “clean” energy source moved forward in both Oregon and Washington legislative sessions.

The draft Nuclear Policy maintains a strong stance of opposition to nuclear activities that threaten Tribal values, rights, and resources, while recognizing the importance of establishing clear conditions under which engagement, participation, or mitigation could be considered.
