This position will protect human life, water, land, air, and wildlife by exercising professional skills and abilities in the protection of the resources of the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation (CTUIR).

GENERAL STATEMENT OF DUTIES

The Forestry program is responsible for the ecological enhancement, economic development, and sustainable use of forest resources of allotted, Tribal trust and Tribal fee patent lands for the CTUIR. The Supervisory Forester oversees the development and implementation of activities and functions to carry out provisions of 25 Code of Federal Regulations. The Supervisory Forester develops, implements, and continues programs designed to secure optimum conservation and utilization of soil, water, and forestry resources to provide a reasonable income to Indian landowners consistent with other resource values. CTUIR employs the best available science to forward our mission through participation in policy, administrative processes, public outreach and education. The position will be under the supervision of the CTUIR Range, Agriculture and Forestry Program Manager. The Forestry Program is required to:

- 1) Integrate the protection, conservation, utilization, and enhancement of Tribal fee, trust and/or restricted Indian forestry lands with the desires of the beneficial owners.
- 2) Ensure that beneficial owners receive fair market value for forestry production; and
- 3) Accomplish 1 and 2 in conjunction with natural resource management objectives and cultural values of the Tribes.

DEPARTMENT AND PROGRAM BACKGROUND:

The CTUIR Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has adopted a mission statement based on protecting and enhancing culturally recognized foods (“First Foods”), including plant community components for which the Forestry Program is primarily responsible. The DNR Mission Statement is as follows:

To protect, restore, and enhance the First Foods - water, salmon, deer, cous, and huckleberry - for the perpetual cultural, economic, and sovereign benefit of the CTUIR. We will accomplish this utilizing traditional ecological and cultural knowledge and science to inform: 1) population and habitat management goals and actions; and 2) natural resource policies and regulatory mechanisms.

In support of the DNR Mission, the Range, Agriculture and Forestry Program mission statement is as follows:

To protect, restore and enhance first foods through stewardship of range, agricultural and forested lands to provide cultural, ecological, economic and social benefits for the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation. In accomplishing this mission the Range, Agriculture and Forestry program encourages stakeholders to conserve, develop and use natural resources for long term sustainability.

Food plants of cultural importance to the CTUIR include for example below-ground root plants represented in the First Food order for example by cous and above-ground fruiting plants represented by huckleberry. Therefore, the management of forested lands must take into account ecological processes that protect and enhance these and other cultural foods in addition to providing forage and habitat for upland wildlife species, domestic livestock and forest stand development.

Foresters work by developing healthy forest environments by ensuring proper tree selection and stocking for the given environment of each stand, providing specifications for prescribed burning, developing management scenarios for enhancement of big game and culturally sensitive food plants. The Supervisory Forester shall develop forest treatment schemes using ecological principles to determine the effects of current and future impacts to Umatilla Indian Reservation forested lands.

The Supervisory Forester will help inform decision and policy makers at the CTUIR of alternatives for forest land management as they pertain to the overall goals and objectives of the CTUIR on lands within the ceded boundary. Criteria for comparing and assessing management alternatives may include on and off-site environmental effects, cost/benefit analysis, and interrelated social and economic factors.
